

TẬP I

Session 15

Instructor: Hồ Lê Vũ

Start recording...

OVERVIEW

- TRAVEL
- SOCIOLOGY

Slide No 4

- Extra reading: Why I'll never return to Vietnam

STRUCTURES

- The last thing you want to do is listen to the observations of an overseas Vietnamese.

vs. The last thing I want is to change career. But this is one million dollars we are talking about!

→ watch sample clips

→ watch sample clips

- You don't have to get all fem on me [l].
  - feminine [N] vs. fem [l, shortening]
- You take that back. Buddies can't be hot.
  - translate... lyrics
    - chia tay anh không đòi lại quà?

STRUCTURES

- chia tay anh không đòi lại quà?
  - no take-backs! [S]

STRUCTURES

- These people have close to zero upward mobility.
  - học sinh nghèo vượt khó?
    - upwardly mobile students
- The Vietnamese are not laid-back [I] like the Laos or Cambodians. They're very in-your-face [I].
  - Those people just get right up in your face to talk and violate your personal space.

STRUCTURES

- Many are motivated purely by the acquisition of money, not as a means but as an end in itself.
  - Marriage is a means to an end, not an end in itself.
    - The MBA is not an end in itself, but a means to an end.
- Different tones for purpose?

STRUCTURES

- purpose [N] vs. point [I→N] vs. end [F] vs. purport [F, O]
  - Our campaign's main purpose is to raise money.
  - What is the point of your visit?
  - The police force is being manipulated for political ends [F].
vs. The album ends [N] with a happy song.
  - The main purport of their visit to France was learning French.

→ bất chấp thủ đoạn?

STRUCTURES

→ bất chấp thủ đoạn?

– the end justifies the means

STRUCTURES

- They see foreigners as walking wallets. [ON]
vs. She plays a gold-digger [ON] who marries for money.
- In Vietnam's defense, not everyone sees the world through American eyes.

→ watch sample clips

STRUCTURES

→ watch sample clips

- In my defense...
- It's been a while since I was intimate with anyone [L, PC].
- Different tones for have sex? Chìch?

STRUCTURES

- have sex [N] vs. do it [I] vs. fuck | get laid | bang [I, rude] vs. copulate | have coitus [F] vs. have intercourse [A] vs. be intimate [L, PC]
  - He had sex with someone he met in a bar.
  - They spent the night together but they didn't do it.
  - They were out to please their girlfriends in hope of getting laid.
  - Whales take twenty-four hours to copulate.
  - Coitus | Sexual intercourse is the act in which the man puts his penis inside the woman's vagina.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

[IELTS tips] copulation [F] vs. coitus [F] vs. intercourse [A]

| Corpus of Contemporary American English |             |          |                                   |          |
|-----------------------------------------|-------------|----------|-----------------------------------|----------|
| SEARCH                                  |             |          | FREQUENCY                         |          |
| SEC 1 (ACADEMIC): 119,790,456 WORDS     |             |          | SEC 2 (SPOKEN): 126,135,576 WORDS |          |
|                                         | WORD/PHRASE | TOKENS 1 |                                   | TOKENS 2 |
| 1                                       | COITUS      | 116      | 1                                 | 5        |

|                                     |             |          |                                   |          |
|-------------------------------------|-------------|----------|-----------------------------------|----------|
| SEC 1 (ACADEMIC): 119,790,456 WORDS |             |          | SEC 2 (SPOKEN): 126,135,576 WORDS |          |
|                                     | WORD/PHRASE | TOKENS 1 |                                   | TOKENS 2 |
| 1                                   | INTERCOURSE | 2210     | 1                                 | 332      |

|                                     |             |          |                                   |          |
|-------------------------------------|-------------|----------|-----------------------------------|----------|
| SEC 1 (ACADEMIC): 119,790,456 WORDS |             |          | SEC 2 (SPOKEN): 126,135,576 WORDS |          |
|                                     | WORD/PHRASE | TOKENS 1 |                                   | TOKENS 2 |
| 1                                   | COPULATION  | 92       | 1                                 | 5        |

STRUCTURES

- Vietnam is more enjoyable when you take it as it is, rather than experience it through a filter 'how you think it should be.'
  - [IELTS tips] Asian workers' performance is often viewed through the filter of race

Slide No 17

- Extra reading: No eating no pooping

LEAD-IN

Every guy thinks that every girls' dream is to find the perfect guy,

LEAD-IN

→ watch sample clips

- Lesson learned: A man's food could be a woman's poison.
  - Without batting an eye [I], she goes "I'll have the veal chop."
    - Ed listened to their strange tale without blinking an eyelash. [I]
  - Not a salad like all the others. Not a little girlie [I, ON] wedge of melon. She gets a huge chunk of meat.
  - It was our third date and I already knew it wasn't going anywhere.

- Extra reading: Men are from Mars, Women are from Venus

TEXT

Imagine that men are from Mars and women are from Venus. One day long ago the Martians, looking through their telescopes, discovered the Venusians. Just glimpsing the Venusians awakened feelings they had never known. They fell in love and quickly invented space travel and flew to Venus. The Venusians welcomed the Martians with open arms. They had intuitively known that this day would come. Their hearts opened wide to a love they had never felt before.

The love between the Venusians and Martians was magical. They delighted in being together, doing things together, and sharing together. Though from different worlds, they reveled in their differences. They spent months learning about each other, exploring and appreciating their different needs, preferences, and behavior patterns. For years they lived together in love and harmony.

TEXT

Then they decided to fly to Earth. In the beginning everything was wonderful and beautiful. But the effects of Earth's atmosphere took hold, and one morning everyone woke up with a peculiar kind of amnesia - selective amnesia!

Both the Martians and Venusians forgot that they were from different planets and were supposed to be different. In one morning everything they had learned about their differences was erased from their memory. And since that day men and women have been in conflict.

REMEMBERING OUR DIFFERENCES

Without the awareness that we are supposed to be different, men and women are at odds with each other. We usually become angry or frustrated with the opposite sex because we have forgotten this important truth. We expect the opposite sex to be more like ourselves. We desire them to "want what we want" and "feel the way we feel."

We mistakenly assume that if our partners love us they will react and behave in certain ways - the ways we react and behave when we love someone. This attitude sets us up to be disappointed again and again and prevents us from taking the necessary time to communicate lovingly about our differences. Clearly recognizing and respecting these differences dramatically reduce confusion when dealing with the opposite sex. When you remember that men are from Mars and women are from Venus, everything can be explained.

STRUCTURES

- The Venusians welcomed the Martians with open arms.
  - The family received their new daughter-in-law with open arms.
- The effects of Earth's atmosphere took hold.
  - I have realized my anger is taking hold of me. It's consuming me every waking hour.

STRUCTURES

- Men and women are at odds with each other.
  - The US and Israel remain at odds over many fundamental questions.

→ DISAGREE: idiom

DISAGREE → AGREE: association

vs. Gavin, who put $20 on the horse, at odds of 50 to 1, has won $1000.

→ BET: other phrase

STRUCTURES

- agree [N] vs. be with [S] vs. concur [F]
    - He agreed with them about the need for change.
    - We strongly concur with the recommendations of this report.
    - I'm with you on this so far.
- [stress] I'm WITH you [understanding] vs. I'm with YOU [agreement]

STRUCTURES

agree [N] vs. be with [S] vs. concur [F]

disagree [N] vs. be not with [S] vs. dissent [F]

- He disagreed with his parents on most things.
- Anyone who dissented was encouraged to speak out.
- I'm afraid I'm not with you on this point.
- < I must take issue with [F] a comment you made yesterday.

- Notes:

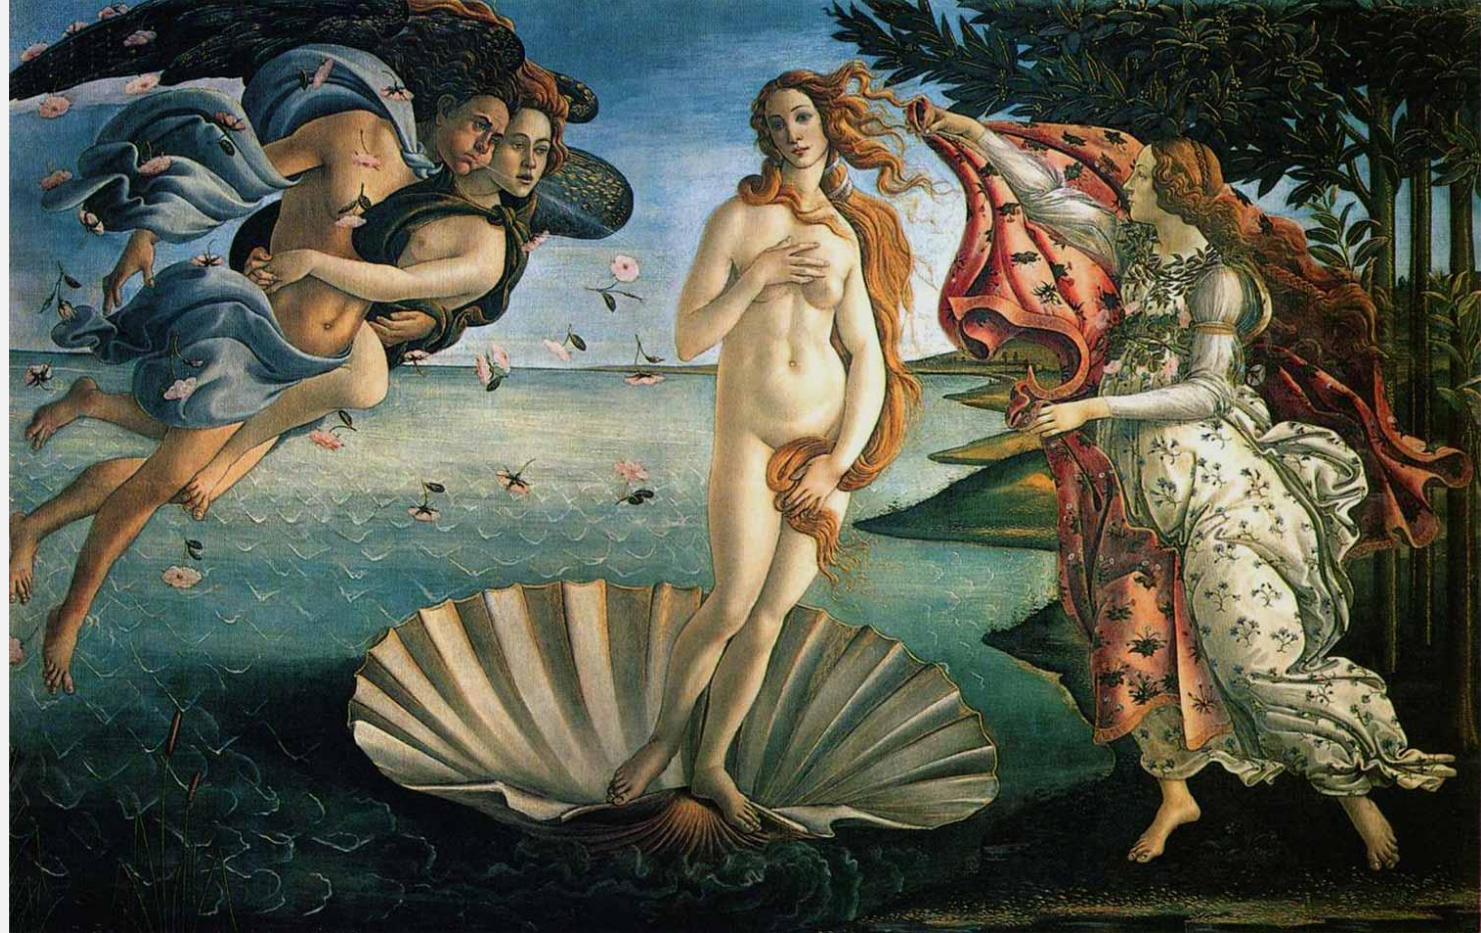

- ‘At least she is good at her job.’ ‘Amen to that’ vs. ‘Oh, I beg to differ.’ [S]

Slide No 28

- Article: Men are Mars, Women are Venus

ANNOTATION

- A Botticelli painting's timeless lessons on male-female relationships
  - Annotation: Sandro Botticelli was a well-known Italian painter (1445–1510). Among his best known works are The Birth of Venus and Primavera.

Birth of Venus depicts the goddess Venus, having emerged from the sea as a fully grown woman, arriving at the sea-shore.

Primavera, a.k.a. Allegory of Spring, is considered one of the most popular paintings in Western art and also one of the most controversial paintings in the world.

Botticelli's Venus and Mars (1485)

TEXT

The 15th-century Italian Renaissance painter Sandro Botticelli may be best known for his "Birth of Venus," but it is his "Venus and Mars" that really speaks to us today, brilliant not only in its artistic virtuosity and beauty but in the way it ingeniously renders in a single frame a vital message. Using mythological figures, Botticelli's painting is a parable of the balance of power between the sexes.

STRUCTURES

- His "Venus and Mars" really speaks to us today.
  - With minimal instrumentation, the song speaks to us with a casualness that's very cool.
  - His clothes speaks [of] [F, L] money and success.
  - We may find that silence speaks volume. It is an answer of its own.
    - Actions speak louder than words.

STRUCTURES

- brilliant not only in its artistic virtuosity and beauty
- [level, formality] hang [I] < skill [N] < virtuosity [F, ART]
  - Skiing is not very tiring, once you get the hang of it.
  - The committee needs someone with good skills in financial planning.
  - The electric guitar virtuosity of Jimi Hendrix had no parallel in history.

STRUCTURES

- it ingeniously renders in a single frame a vital message.
- express [N] vs. put [I→N] vs. render [F]
  - She expresses her thoughts most clearly in her paintings.
  - The witness convincingly rendered her version of events in just a few words.
  - You can't put that sort of fear into words.
    - To put it bluntly, he doesn't care.
- phổ nhạc? phổ thơ?

STRUCTURES

- phổ nhạc? phổ thơ?
  - Pablo Milanés's musical rendering of the poet's verses
  - His lost love was poetically rendered as to be more inspiring than devastating.

TEXT

Venus gazes at a sleeping Mars after a romantic interlude. She is draped in a flowing white gown, her curly locks cascading gently over her delicate bosom, her body resting casually against a soft apricot-colored pillow. The goddess of love reigns supreme; she has subdued the god of war. Grinning satyrs play impishly with the spoils of conquest. One has donned the war god's helmet, wrapping his arms around the handle of the god's mighty spear; another glances back at Venus to gauge her reaction to the sport; and the third mischievously puffs a deafening blast through a large conch into the insensible god's ear. Mars slumbers deeply in the sylvan glade -- surrendered of heart, depleted of strength, his magnificent masculinity subjugated by the power of love.

STRUCTURES

- She is draped in a flowing white gown.
  - Her showgirl outfit is black and billowy.
  - Blue-eyed and willowy, Hannah has curly hair flowing about her elongated face.
    - Her massive red hair billows around her face like some kind of Arabian princess.
- bia rượu uống thả phanh?
  - We are invited to a holiday party where alcohol is flowing freely.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Q: Em đang phải dịch câu slogan của Công ty Vang Thăng Long là CHAN CHỨA TÌNH THÂN, ẤM NỒNG HỘI TỤ sang tiếng Anh. Theo em hiểu thì ý của slogan là các sản phẩm của công ty luôn đồng hành cùng người tiêu dùng trong những cuộc hội họp, trong những bữa cơm gia đình, những bữa tiệc nông ẩm.

→ PARALLELLISM in Vietnamese vs.
LINEARITY+DEPENDENCY in English

A: Warm reunions flowing with love

STRUCTURES

- The goddess of love reigns supreme [L].
  - As a wine producer, France still reigns supreme.
  - The motorbike reigns supreme as Vietnam's most popular mode of transport.

STRUCTURES

- Grinning satyrs play impishly with the spoils of conquest.
- loot [N] vs. spoils [L, F]
  - This way you can get a variety of loot off enemy ships.
  - Instead of peace restoration, most countries wanted to punish Germany & treat themselves to the spoils of war.
- [ON] stolen goods [N] vs. loot [I] vs. spoils [L, F]
  - Most criminals sell their stolen goods for cash on the black market.
  - The thieves' loot includes Nike shoes, watches and money.
  - The bandits escaped with their life but not with the spoils
- hôi của?

STRUCTURES

- hôi của?
  - Crowds loot alcohol from the scene of a truck accident.
  - Small shops have been ravaged by looters following the death of George Floyd in police custody. The looting was often not the work of protesters, but outside opportunists.

STRUCTURES

- One has donned the war god's helmet.
- wear [N] vs. have on [I→N] vs. don [L]
  - Melissa had her new dress on.
    - I didn't have my glasses on.
→ watch sample clips
  - vs. put on
- wear vs. dress

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

WEAR
material

DRESS manner

- He always wears a nice shirt vs. He always dresses nicely.

Interchangeable usage in real life (involving synecdoche)

- All of them wear white vs. dress in white

- mang quần áo đủ mặc hai ngày?
  - bring two days' worth of clothes
    - They've produced five hours' worth of videos.

STRUCTURES

- Another glances back at Venus to gauge her reaction to the sport.
- joke [N] vs. fun [I→N] vs. sport [O]
  - It was done as a joke vs. for fun vs. in sport, but it hurt some feelings nonetheless.
  - Food for thought: AS a joke vs. FOR fun vs. IN sport?

SOLUTIONS

- Food for thought: as a joke [nature]
vs. for fun [purpose]
vs. in sport [manner]

STRUCTURES

- Mars slumbers deeply in the sylvan glade.
- Different tones for sleep?

STRUCTURES

- sleep [N] vs. shut-eye [I] vs. slumber [L]
  - Babies need a lot of sleep.
    - We both slept badly and felt terrible the next day.
  - You should go home and get some shut-eye.
  - fallen into exhausted slumber
    - He observed in silence the slumbering villagers.
- Công chúa ngủ trong rừng?
  - Sleeping Beauty slumbered in her forest castle.

STRUCTURES

- sleep [N] vs. shut-eye [I] vs. slumber [L]
- nap [N] vs. snooze [I] vs. forty winks [I, O] vs. sleep briefly [N→F]
  - I often take a nap after lunch.
    - Mack was napping on the couch when we came back.
  - He settled in the grass for a snooze.
    - The children play while the adults snooze in the sun.
  - I'll feel much better when I've had forty winks. [I, O]
  - They slept briefly before one of the fires.
- Different tones for go to bed?

STRUCTURES

- go to bed [N] vs. hit the sack | hit the hay [I] vs. turn in [I, O] vs. retire [F]
  - We finally went to bed at about 4am.
  - She hit the sack early, exhausted.
  - I plan to go for a few beers down the local pub before hitting the hay.
  - Would you like some tea before you turn in?
  - Some time after midnight, he retired [to bed].

STRUCTURES

- Ngủ qua đêm nhà bạn
  - Friday night features a slumber party vs. sleep-over
    - watch sample clips
- kéo gỗ, kéo bể, ngáy o o?
  - She passed out last night after the party; she was totally sawing logs [I, O].

STRUCTURES

- depleted of strength
- to exhaust [N] vs. use up [I→N] vs. be depleted of something [F]
  - We have exhausted all our material resources.
  - Making soup is a good way of using up leftover vegetables.
  - The lake was depleted of water.
    - [IELTS tips] Overexploitation is depleting the country of its natural resources.

Slide No 55

- Extra reading: You just don't understand

TEXT

A married couple was in a car when the wife turned to her husband and asked, "Would you like to stop for a coffee?" "No, thanks," he answered truthfully. So they didn't stop. The result? The wife, who had indeed wanted to stop, became annoyed because she felt her preference had not been considered. The husband, seeing his wife was angry, became frustrated. Why didn't she just say what she wanted?

Unfortunately, he failed to see that his wife was asking the question not to get an instant decision, but to begin a negotiation. And the woman didn't realize that when her husband said no, he was just expressing his preference, not making a ruling. When a man and woman interpret the same interchange in such conflicting ways, it's no wonder they can find themselves leveling angry charges of selfishness and obstinacy at each other.

As a specialist in linguistics, I have studied how the conversational styles of men and women differ. We cannot lump all men or all women into fixed categories. But the seemingly senseless misunderstandings that haunt our relationships can in part be explained by the different conversational rules by which men and women play.

Whenever I write or speak about this subject, people tell me they are relieved to learn that what has caused them trouble – and what they had previously ascribed to personal failings – is, in act, very common. Learning about the different though equally valid conversational frequencies men and women are tuned to can help banish the blame and help us truly talk to one another. Here are some of the most common areas of conflict:

STATUS VS. SUPPORT

Men grow up in a world in which a conversation is often a contest, either to achieve the upper hand or to prevent other people from pushing them around. For women, however, talking is often a way to exchange confirmation and support.

I saw this when my husband and I had jobs in different cities. People frequently made comments like, "That must be rough," and "How do you stand it?" I accepted their sympathy and sometimes even reinforced it, saying, "The worst part is having to pack and unpack all the time." But my husband often reacted with irritation. Our situation had advantages, he would explain. As academics, we had four-day weekends together, as well as long vacations throughout the year and four months in the summer.

Everything he said was true, but I didn't understand why he chose to say it. He told me that some of the comments implied: "Yours is not a real marriage. I am superior to you because my wife and I have avoided your misfortune." Until then it had not occurred to me there might be an element of one-upmanship.

I now see that my husband was simply approaching the world as many men do: as a place where people try to achieve and maintain status. I, on the other hand, was approaching the world as many women do: as a network of connections seeking support and consensus.

MEN vs. WOMEN

- TẠP's fun experiment: How men and women react differently to a friend's bad news? → watch sample clips

Do Khanh Ly Em đang hồi hộp mong chờ cái kết quả của Experiment quá:)

48 minutes ago · Like

- The Reaction to friend's bad news experiment: WHO is judging WHOM? Accumulated results (580 females & 163 males)
  - phũ (39%)
  - không quan trọng hóa vấn đề (39%)
  - hóng hớt (37%)
  - quan tâm (51%)

EXPERIMENT RESULTS

- The Reaction to friend's bad news experiment: WHO is judging WHOM? Accumulated results (580 females & 163 males)
  - phũ (39%)
  - không quan trọng hóa vấn đề (39%)
  - hóng hớt (37%)
  - quan tâm (51%)
- Solutions

|                      |                                         |
|----------------------|-----------------------------------------|
| phũ (W about M)      | không quan trọng hóa vấn đề (M about M) |
| hóng hớt (M about W) | quan tâm (W about W)                    |

Slide No 61

- Article: Men are Mars, Women are Venus (cont.)

Botticelli's lighthearted scene evokes the perennial tug of war between men and women in a manner that brings to mind a modern sitcom. Mars, his physical needs gratified, wants simply to sleep; Venus, still wide awake, yearns for tender conversation, for some indication that his interest in her is more than sexual. Her ambivalent expression reflects a mixture of fulfillment and wistfulness -- along with just a touch, perhaps, of smug satisfaction that her charms have reduced the fearsome god of war to a lump of inert, snoring flesh.

STRUCTURES

- Botticelli's lighthearted scene evokes the perennial tug of war between men and women
- remind of [N] vs. bring to mind [I→N] vs. evoke [F]
  - His fierce stare reminded her of an owl
  - That music brings to mind our first date.
  - The music evoked memories of her youth.

STRUCTURES

- Venus, still wide awake, yearns for tender conversation.
→ translate lyrics...
  - long for [N] vs. hanker for [I] vs. yearn for | thirst for [L]
    - I was tired and was longing for her to leave.
    - By the middle of the winter, they were hankering for a warm day.
    - She yearned for children of her own.
    - The local area thirsts for rain.
- vs. I pine for [ON] a big garden but now that is impossible for city-dwellers.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

- yearn > want
- long for [N] vs. hanker for [I] vs. yearn for | thirst for [L]

→ WANT: action

[nuance]

or

→ YEARN: action

YEARN → WANT: association

YEARN → LOVE: association

- Different tones for want?

STRUCTURES

want [N] vs. feel like [I] vs. fancy [I, BR] vs. desire [F] vs. will [F, O, L]

- Ian knows exactly what he wants in life.
- The company naturally desires to avoid negative publicity.
- I feel like a cup of coffee.
  - Do you feel like going for a swim?
- Fancy a drink?
  - I fancied a change of scene.
- Call it what you will, it's still a problem.
  - Their friendship flourished because Adams willed it.
- Different tones for love?

STRUCTURES

- love [N] vs. heart [I, functional shift] vs. be enamored of [F]
  - We love each other and we both love sports cars.
  - Jane hearts John.
    - I loathe beer. But I heart beer commercials.
  - She became enamored of the boy next door.

STRUCTURES

- with a touch of smug satisfaction that her charms have reduced the fearsome god of war to a lump of inert, snoring flesh.
  - I did a touch of acting when I was younger.
  - crispy chips with a touch of salt

Slide No 69

- Extra reading: You just don't understand (cont.)

INDEPENDENCE VS. INTIMACY

Since women often think in terms of closeness and support, they struggle to preserve intimacy. Men, concerned with status, tend to focus more on independence. These traits can lead women and men to starkly different views of the same situation.

When Josh's old high-school friend called him at work to say he'd be in town, Josh invited him to stay for the weekend. That evening he told Linda they were having a house guest. Linda was upset. How could Josh make these plans without discussing them with her beforehand? She would never do that to him.

"Why don't you tell your friend you have to check with your wife?" she asked. Josh replied, "I can't tell my friend, 'I have to ask my wife for permission'!"

To Josh, checking with his wife would mean he was not free to act on his own. It would make him feel like a child or an underling. But Linda actually enjoys telling someone, "I have to check with Josh." It makes her feel good to show that her life is intertwined with her husband's.

HOMEWORK

- Session 17
  - SOCIOLOGY